The more awards you apply for, the more money you are likely to receive. Apply the “Rule of Ten” when searching and applying for scholarships. “you will likely qualify and apply for one of every ten you research; You may be awarded one of ten scholarships you apply for”.

Apply for many scholarships. Receiving ten $500.00 scholarships has the same effect as one $5,000 scholarship.

Prepare a standard biographical portfolio and essay. Have personal information and answers to common essay questions ready for you to refer to for each application.

Be sure to pay attention to important details, (Deadline Dates, misspelled words or incomplete information are common mistakes, Don’t leave any boxes or questions unanswered, Be sure to follow all directions).

Set aside time each week to perform your scholarship search. Searching for scholarships can be done all throughout the year.

Students can start searching for scholarships as early as grade school If you haven’t started searching yet start now, while you are attending college and don’t stop searching until you have completed your education. The earlier you start your search the better, but it’s better to be late to the party than not go at all.

Good Luck in searching your Endless Possibilities!!!
